KENYA Land of Mystery and Marvels

HAPPY VALENTINE'S DAY!!!

Aren't they ADORABLE?!?!?

With luck, you may see this in person and get your own photos!

Precious pictures!

Now for a bit of humor about packing: Let's face it, packing is a crap shoot!

Step #1: Toss everything you could possible need on vacation on your bed.

Step #2: Fit is ALL in your suitcase (you know, "just in case").

Step #3: Cram the rest of it in every dark recess of your carry-on.

Step #4: Pray your checked bag isn't overweight.

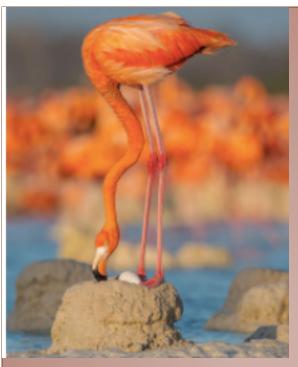

Step #5: Try not to let the gate agent see how big and heavy your carry-on is.

Step #6: Sit on the plane and ask yourself why you do this circus act every time!

In upcoming newsletters, I'll go over the packing list again. It will be painless!!! :>) Remember: Each of us can have one (1) suitcase (think soft side, something that can be "molded" into place in the vehicle), and a "carry-on" think back-pack for things such as your camera, chargers, extra underwear, and day essentials. There is not a lot of room for major luggage, so pack light! You really don't need much ... everything is casual! Very casual! :>) Details to follow in upcoming newsletters.

myriad of birds! After seeing the flamingoes, you'll re-think those plastic ones on people's lawns!!!

Only 265 days before we leave the USA!!! Will you be ready???

I've had a few more questions regarding medications. You will have to be fully vaccinated for Covid and will be required to take malaria pills. This is just a precaution. The only bug/insect I've seen in Kenya was a moth ... HOWEVER it's better to be safe than sorry! I do keep my tetanus shot up to date, but that's just me.

For you newcomers, we'll go over everything in the up-coming newsletters. I have to stress that you make sure your passports are valid for at least 6 months AFTER we leave Kenya. Again, the passport office is backed up, so check them now!! You'll also need your passport to get a Kenyan Visa. We'll get to that a bit later.

I need a head count NOW!!! No more foolin' around! If you've been on the fence about going, give it some serious thought and let me know. There are only 5 spaces left ... We have a male and a female in need of roommates and I'd appreciate it if you guys would get off that fence and sign on! Let's fill these chairs!!! :>)

That's it for this week!

Kwa heri!
