KENYA

Only 196 days to go!!!

Land of Mystery and Marvels!

We still need 5 more people to join our group ... let your friends and families know what awaits them in Kenya!

I've had more questions about what's available to buy ...

PLENTY!!! Kenyans are amazing artisans and jewelry is just one of the crafts available! You may notice a similarity to the beadwork done by Native Americans ...

No, the bracelet and charms are NOT ivory ... they're giraffe bone.

But we're not here to just buy jewelry! I Hope! We're here because of the amazing ANIMALS!!! We will see them every day, in fact several times a day ... from morning to night! We'll wake to see the monkeys running about ... then off for a morning game drive ... lunch ... afternoon game drive ... dinner ... and the possibility of seeing them if one of our "hotels" has a feeding platform where certain "night" animals visit. If we're lucky, we may see the illusive "Bush Baby" >>>

<<<<<< ... or a beautiful Genet Cat.

Where ever we go and whatever we see, it won't be what you see at home OR in a zoo! We'll be seeing them where they belong ... happy and healthy in their natural habitat!

... and, AGAIN, we never know what we'll come upon ... for example, this case of Lion Daycare so very close to our vehicle!!!

Nothing rivals the wildlife we'll see in Kenya!

And so another week goes by and we're closer to our departure date ... will you be with us??? Will we be going at all??? We are still short a few people, so do ask your family and friends if they'd like to join us!

Remember, this isn't a TREKKING safari ... we won't be doing much walking ... in fact, the only walking we may do will be around the Lodges we stay at! You can relax and pace yourself ... if you want to miss a game drive and hit the pool or the spa, that's fine! We're there to enjoy ourselves! :>)

'til next week! Kwa heri!

BTW, I've been asked about the photos, most of them were taken by me on previous trips. Why do I go back? Because it's an incredible country with amazing people and, OH! ... the animals!!!
