KENYA Land of Mystery and Marvels

Well, here we are at the beginning of April and still waiting to hear from those of you who haven't responded yet. UTg can't wait forever to confirm our space in Kenya. We are still in need of a few more of you to join us or we will have to cancel. :>(Don't miss out on what may be your "Once in a Lifetime" adventure!

There may come a time you will only be able to see these animals in zoos or on TV.

You've seen pictures of the "hotels" we'll be staying at, but until you're there you won't believe just how beautiful there really are. Not to mention the amenities! So, come on, get back to me with a positive "YES"!

Another question I keep getting is about the weather. Is it hot? Is it cold? During the day the temp is usually around 75F. It can get cold at night, which makes for good sleeping. As for rain, we'll be there at the very end of High Season, so no major rain. We may have a few brief showers, but nothing to worry about the vehicles all have roofs!

What are our chances of seeing "The Big Five" ... I've seen them each time I've been there. The most difficult to find is the Leopard.

They aren't called The Big Five because of their size, but rather because not only are they the most poached, but also the most difficult and dangerous to hunt on foot. We won't be hunting ... just looking and shooting with cameras!!! :>)

Oh, here's a "Fun Fact" and you can look this up, while I don't advise anyone to wear perfume or cologne, I have to stress not to wear "Calvin Klein's Obsession For Men". It seems there are certain cats that are attracted to this scent. It's been used in South American to track Jaguars and in India to hunt Tigers. Just a thought.

Here's a reminder about Swahili:

Thank you = Asante

Thank you very much – Asante Sana

Those are the most valuable words to remember. We'll go over more in future newsletters! :>)

Ok, that's about it for this week ... keep your questions coming ... and let's get serious, VERY SERIOUS, about joining our group! So far we have a good group of people, we just need a few more! :>) Due to illness, both single rooms are now available.

Kwa heri!
