

I don't know which is more beautiful ... Sunset or sunrise. The air is crystal clear and this photo doesn't do it justice.

Add to that the night sky, which shows constellations so different from those we see here.

We cross the Equator and see a example of how water goes clockwise on one side and counterclockwise on the other.

Everyone has a window seat ... and each day we change position:

Front row goes to the back,

middle row moves to the front, back row moves to the middle, and so on ...

^ This is the last group I took to Kenya. ^

Please remember, a lot of what I'll be sending you may repeat itself. There are others who are joining this mailing list and have to "catch up"!

Here are a few “DO’s” and “DON’T’s”

DO expect to have fun!

DO expect to see things you will NOT see in zoos!

DO expect to love the food!

DO expect to take a Gazillion photos!

DO ask questions! Our Guides are more than happy to answer them!

DO pack a sweatshirt or jacket – it’s cold at night!

DO expect to be WOWED by your accommodations! Even the tents will blow you away!

DON’T wear shiny jewelry – they may distract the animals AND may attract the monkeys!!!

DON’T wear loud colors – Again, this may distract or up set the animals. Stick with light colors.

DON’T try to pet the baboons!!!! They aren’t friendly and do have VERY large teeth!

DON’T ignore your Driver/Interpreter! If he says to roll up the windows, roll up the windows! He’s there to help you enjoy your visit and to keep you safe!

DON’T be afraid ... everything’s under control. You’ll have the best vacation ever!!!

You'll love the scenery, once out of the city of Nairobi. Fun fact: Nairobi is the only city in the world with a wildlife park within its city limits.

As usual, I end with – “if you have any questions or want additional info (except for prices which will be available later in the year), PLEASE feel free to email me! Oh, and I was told to close with my FULL name since a lot of you know me one way, and others the other way!!! LOL!!!

ENJOY!!!
