KENYA

Land of Mystery and Marvels

Habari, All!

Isn't this a lovely shot of a pleasant cruise on the lake? Just floating along amidst the water lilies ... so relaxing. Can only hope a hippo doesn't pop up! LOL!!! Not to worry, your guide knows where they are!

Ok, guys! I need that headcount so we can lock in our land price. Even if you THINK you may want to join us, let me know. There's no commitment until deposits are required, BUT I need to hear from you now! Asante!

Along the way, we'll encounter a number of birds such as this dancing Ostrich. There will be a number of beauties we won't be able to name, but will see!

Forest elephants are now critically endangered and savannah elephants are also endangered according to the International Union for Conservation of Nature. The IUCN keeps the most comprehensive inventory of species' extinction risk. The biggest driver of decline is still poaching. I hope you'll join me to see these amazing creatures before you can only see them in zoos.

Yes! We may be this close! Even closer if we encounter a herd on the road. They may encircle the vehicle allowing for AMAZING photos!

Shall we re-cap? We're going to have 8 days and seven nights in Kenya. The last 3 of those nights will be in a tented camp in the Maasai Mara. Upon arriving at Jomo Kenyatta International Airport in Nairobi we'll be met and transferred to the Sarova Stanley Hotel for one night. By this time, we'll all be VERY tired, so a good night's sleep will be welcome! Next morning, after a hearty breakfast, we begin our ADVENTURE!!! I just learned we don't HAVE to arrive on the same flight. We do have to arrive on the same day, BUT if you chose to arrive on a different flight, you can ... however there will be an extra charge of $31USD per person to be met at the airport and taken to The Stanley Hotel in Nairobi.

That's about it for this week! Do let me know ASAP if you are interested so we can nail down the price!

We leave the US in 430 days and will be in our vehicles and off on SAFARI in 428 days!!!

Kwa heri!
